THE DAY WILL HAVE 3 TRACKS:

TRACK 1: INTERCULTURAL CITY TRANSFORMATION

This track is dedicated to exploring the powerful intersection between intercultural churches and the transformation of our cities. Unpack findings from six recent city intercultural conversations and we will delve into the stages and ways in which intercultural churches can serve as catalysts for change, fostering unity, and promoting social justice.

Whether you are a church leader, a member of an intercultural congregation, or someone passionate about city transformation, this track offers a wealth of, insights, and practical ideas.

with Andy Frost, Osoba Otaigbe, Tani Omideyi, Laura Palmer, Girma Bishaw, Olivia Amartey, Paul Lancaster, Ebenezer Aryee, Roger Sutton, Yinxuan Huang, Chi Wai Wu, Nigel Langford

TRACK 2: INTERCULTURAL CONGREGATION TRACK

This track is designed for church leaders, pastors, and church members who are passionate about cultivating intercultural communities within their congregations. We will explore the beauty and the challenges exploring topics such as welcoming, belonging and integration. There'll be practical tools and strategies to help you navigate intercultural dynamics with grace and understanding. Perfect for those starting out on this journey and for those that have been leading an intercultural congregation for years.

with Israel Olofijana, Adam Martins, Victoria Lawrence, Bishop Mike Royal, Ursula Lai, Joe Kalpoyo

TRACK 3: INTERCULTURAL WORSHIP

Designed for worship leaders, musicians, and anyone interested in exploring the transformative power of intercultural worship in churches. We will explore how diverse elements can be used to create inclusive and meaningful worship as a fundamental way to build intercultural community together. We will discuss practical strategies and learn how to honour and respect different cultural traditions while also creating space for new collaborative worship expressions.

with Les Moir, Ian Collinge, Jessie Tang, The Resonance Band

Our hope and prayer is that this day will be catalytic for the Church in the UK and that everyone will leave with:

- an increased awareness of the power of working intercultural
- developed skills and insights for practical application
- new friendships and connections for the journey ahead
- a fresh dose of inspiration and motivation!
- plans for some longer term impact
